

Christians Aware is an international and ecumenical movement. Its main aim is to develop multi cultural understanding and friendship locally, nationally and internationally, in a spirit of sharing. Thus, new energy is generated for action towards human development and wholeness, through conferences, work-camps, international exchanges, books and other publications, including the magazine. There are no experts. We are continually reminded of the advice of Ronald Wynne who has worked for many years in Botswana:

"Do not try to teach anyone anything until you have learnt something from them."

Christians Aware recognises the importance of openness, adaptability and faith in the future.

Aldhelm was born around 640 and was educated at Canterbury where he impressed his teachers with his skill in the study of Latin and Greek literature. He became Abbot of Malmesbury in 683.

He wrote poetry, composed music and sang – King Alfred the Great placed him in the first rank of poets in the country. He excelled at playing many different instruments including the harp, fiddle and pipes. He is also the author of a series of riddles which we will have some fun with during the week.

During his time as Abbot, Aldhelm noticed that, instead of attending mass, the local people preferred to spend their time gossiping and could not be persuaded to listen to the preacher. So, one day, he stationed himself on a bridge, like a minstrel, and began to sing his ballads. The beauty of his verse attracted a huge crowd and, when he had caught their attention, he began to teach the gospel.

In 705 he was made Bishop of Sherborne. He died on 25 May 709 at Doulting, Somerset.
